Decision Table

- When an authenticated creator submits a supported campaign URL and has sufficient wallet balance, the system deducts funds into escrow and publishes the campaign to the active viewer queue.
- When an authenticated creator attempts to launch a campaign with insufficient wallet balance, the system blocks the action and displays an error message.
- When an authenticated viewer keeps the browser tab focused, watches for the required duration under normal human view velocity without duplicates, the system credits the micro-payout to the viewer and deducts it from the creator's escrow.
- When a viewer unfocuses the browser tab or fails to complete the required watch duration, the system pauses the timer and withholds the micro-reward.
- When a user exhibits abnormal view velocities (bot activity) or triggers duplicate active sessions, the system blocks the session, flags the account, and freezes the wallet.
- When an authenticated viewer with a balance meeting or exceeding the minimum threshold requests a withdrawal, the system processes the external payout request.
- When an authenticated viewer with a balance below the minimum required limit attempts to request a withdrawal, the system denies the request and displays a threshold error message.
- When an unauthenticated user attempts to perform protected creator, viewer, or administrative actions, the system blocks the request and redirects them to the login portal.
- When an authenticated creator submits a campaign link from an unrecognized or restricted platform, the system halts creation and displays an unsupported URL error.
- When a viewer attempts to watch content from a campaign that has run out of budget or reached its maximum view limit, the system blocks the view and notifies the user that the campaign has ended.
